

FAST SYSTEM LEVEL RECOVERY

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When recovering data in a database, initially, a database log, which records activities related to a database, is scanned. One or more individual objects that are to be recovered to a 5 target time with reference to a backup time are identified.